I would like to know if this is true?

The Dep. of Ecology says it has determined that if the CAFO has a lagoon that does not have a double geomembrane liner with a leak detection system between the liner layers that it is discharging to groundwater. Now I would ask you do you have "Scientific Proof" that every dairy with out a liner is discharging? If this is true I would say the Dep. of Ecology the Obamanites are using "executive order" trying to use Power that is not theirs. To force through laws that have no merit. Our lagoon has been there for 32 years, and there's the well for the dairy 300' from the lagoon, the state tests the water annualy. So far not a trace of discharging not a "Smidget".

We have our Nutrient Managemet Plan and we don't need a Permit!

Now the same goes for the waters of the State and buffer zone

Again we have our Nutrient Management Plan we have our soil tests we know what to apply. Let the Stewards of the land do their Job. We do not need Bureaucrats to tell us how to run our farms. If you need a good Job come and talk to Me.
