- EPA WARM Model (Sara Hartwell, EPA HQ)
  - Solid waste and climate change (Dave Allaway, OR DEQ)
  - Current solid waste & recycling infrastructure (Laurie Davies, Ecy.; Gene Eckhardt, WA UTC)
  - Current waste generation rates and recycling numbers (Gretchen Newman, Ecology)
- 12:00 PM Break to Hand Out Lunches (15 minutes)
- Please bring a sack lunch or approximately $10 to purchase a boxed lunch. We are arranging a boxed lunch order and will order first thing in the morning at the meeting.

- 12:15 PM Working Lunch: Initial Brainstorming Effort—Identifying Work Areas (90 minutes)
- Please refer to the list of 7 potential task areas identified in the draft scope of work to answer the following questions.
- Are any action areas missing?
  - From your organization or industry perspective, what action areas are most relevant to you and what are the most significant ways to realize GHG emissions reductions in those areas?
  - What are the biggest barriers to reducing GHG emissions from your perspective?
  - Which action area or areas could you best contribute to developing specific policy, legislation or other specific actions in?
- The goals for this discussion are to identify any action areas missing from the task list, begin to identify the range of potential emission reduction actions/strategies and challenges, and match individual workgroup members to the actions/strategies it makes most sense for them to focus on.
- 1:45 Break (15 minutes)
- 2:00 Second Brainstorming Effort—Beginning to Frame the Work (90 minutes)
- Based on the first brainstorming, consider:
- What are the two biggest opportunities to reduce GHG emissions across all the action areas?
  - Do any action areas stand out above the others as good candidates for achieving significant reductions? If so, why?
  - For priority actions, what will it take to realize each opportunity (policy, legislation, infrastructure, capital investment, other)?
  - How should the IWG organize itself to further this work?
- The goal for this discussion is to identify some high-priority action areas for further focus and to frame next steps. This will include a discussion of future meetings.
- 3:30 Public Comment (15 minutes or longer as needed)
- 3:45 Wrap up and Next Steps
- 4:00 Adjourn
