

Comparison between aerial photography and LIDAR along Reach B of the Big Quilcene River illustrates locations of potential avulsions. Arrows point to relict channels on the AHZ surface. The main channel of the Big Quilcene River flows from left to right through the center of each picture. [Photos from USBOR channel migration study in Jefferson County]