

Information repositories

The King County Library currently houses the official information repository. However, the library has limited space for document storage and for people to sit while reviewing lengthy documents, and the hours of operation in the library are limited. For these reasons, information repositories can also be found in the Skykomish Town Hall and in the home of Michael Moore for the SEC.

Complete site files are kept at Ecology's regional office in Bellevue and available for public review by appointment.
