

5.0 SCHEDULE

The remedial design process for the Island Complex and Murray Road sites, including development of plans and specifications, design review, and the public comment period, is scheduled to be completed by late spring or early summer 2007. The design process for Harvard Road North is expected to lag this preliminary schedule by approximately 3 to 6 months. The design phase will be followed by contractor procurement and construction. The construction of the remedy at Island Complex and Murray Road is tentatively scheduled for late summer and early fall 2007 during the period of low river flow. A schedule for the remedial design, contractor procurement and remedial construction at Island Complex, Murray Road and Harvard Road North sites is presented in Figure 6. The schedule will be updated, as needed, if project milestones change.
