

The Department of Ecology's Response to:
Rick Huey – Washington State Ferries (Comment 62)

A group of eight listings were identified as being “Eagle Harbor” listings. Unfortunately these were mapped about 2 miles from their correct location and actually appear in Puget Sound as opposed to Eagle Harbor. The twenty-four year old documentation identifies the data that supports these listings came from three different locations inside Eagle Harbor and would have required a complete reassessment of this older data. Instead, these listings were assigned a new location within Eagle Harbor near the mouth.
