Comments: This sounds to me like something a dumb politician would pull. Waiting until the disease runs rampant before doing anything about it. You are not the one that lives close to an area that mosquitos live and breed. It is perfectly ok with all of you wonderful people who live and work in your comffy penthouses that are sprayed with every pesticide that can be named or identified so that you are safe from any disease carried by the mosquitoes. "waters of the state" are not what we are talking about here it is our lives. We support what the mosquito control districts do for our lives. Being able to live outside in our community. Not being able to adulticide for mosquitoes will change our quality of lives, not you, because you remain in your "mosquito nets" because your houses and yards are allowed to be sprayed.
