

“The Fanny Pack”

- Key Recommendations
 - This is our executive summary – our high level recommendations for policy makers to see what we’re recommending be done

“The Overnight Bag”

- Introduction
 - Background and context that applies to the strategy for establishing a regional stormwater monitoring program. It is revised from the November 2009 draft based on comments and (hopefully) streamlined to help orient the reader to focus on our key recommendations
- Volume 1: Scientific Framework
 - Description of the universe of the problem and initial priorities for the regional monitoring program. It is revised from the November 2009 draft based on comments and new work; it includes our key recommendations for hypotheses and experimental designs, in more detail than in the exec summary
- Volume 2: Implementation Plan
 - Steps to establish the regional monitoring program, including roles, responsibilities, costs. This is new work, informed by comments offered during the November 2009 comment period. It includes our key recommendations for who does what when, in more detail than exec summary.
- Guide to Appendices
 - The appendices are where all of our detail resides, and this section helps those interested find what they’re looking for

“The Motor Home”

- Appendices
 - Detailed background information, experimental designs, next steps for implementation, and all the other work we’ve done